OUR MISSION

Vancouver Heritage Foundation promotes the appreciation and conservation of our city’s historic places for current and future generations.

VHF does this by creating opportunities and resources to learn about Vancouver’s history and heritage places, and providing practical support for the successful conservation of historic buildings and sites.

VHF recognizes the diverse history and cultural heritage of Vancouver and that the city is located on the traditional, ancestral and unceded territories of the xʷməθkʷəyəm (Musqueam), Skwxwú7mesh (Squamish), and səliiwətaʔ (Tsleil-Waututh) peoples.

FROM THE EXECUTIVE DIRECTOR

In 2019, VHF implemented a diverse program of activities in line with our mission to promote the appreciation and conservation of Vancouver’s historic places. Nearly 60 events were offered, attended by more than 3,300 people. Online information resources were enhanced and website users grew to over 120,000. New and established grant programs provided direct support to heritage conservation, energy retrofits and publications. Technical workshops and internships helped grow knowledge and skills capacity. Guidance to members of the public assisted with the challenges of conservation efforts.

We were excited to move forward with a significant expansion of our granting programs, both for conservation of buildings and sites, and to support new publications on heritage topics. After a year of development, the launch of the Heritage Study Guide for Schools and the accompanying school grants for books and field trips was also a big step forward in our support of educators and students to learn about local history and heritage.

VHF works hard to ensure a future for heritage places in our city and we can only do this with the generous support of many people. I would like to thank all the donors, sponsors and volunteers who contributed during the year and everyone who shared their time and expertise with VHF, helping us to deliver a diverse and engaging program.

FROM THE BOARD OF DIRECTORS

In 2019, Vancouver Heritage Foundation took substantial steps forward with several new initiatives launching during the year. A greatly expanded Heritage Conservation Grants Program was enabled with new funding from the City of Vancouver, building on 20 years of VHF support for heritage projects. The Yosef Wosk Publication Grants and the Heritage Study Guide for Schools were also key developments towards expanding VHF's impact and engaging new audiences. The VHF team, under the skilled leadership of Executive Director Judith Mosley, also orchestrated a wide range of established programs and continued to grow online resources, providing a full calendar of events and rich opportunities to learn about and explore our city's history and heritage places.

The Strategic Plan developed in 2017 continues to guide VHF's activities, including working towards ensuring the organization has the resources it needs in the long term. The organization ended the year in a positive financial position, reflecting strong fiscal management, effective fundraising and sustainable stewardship of funds. The Board welcomed three new members, each bringing further skills and knowledge to the organization that will be valuable as we look forward to the further growth of VHF.

I would like to thank all who contributed to a very positive year including the Board members, talented VHF staff team and the many volunteers and donors who generously gave their support.

David Dove
Chair of the Board

HERITAGE HOUSE TOUR

On June 2nd, the 17th annual Heritage House Tour highlighted the adaptability of heritage and character buildings. Over 1,100 participants toured nine locations including the 1895 home built for George Weeks that is now a calming wellness centre in a historic square. The houses also included the A-listed 1910 Arts and Crafts beauty Hirschfeld House and six decades of architectural design including handsome Victorian detailing, sturdy Craftsman construction and even influential Mid-Century Modern design in The Downs Residence, a 1959 masterpiece.

THE EVER-CHANGING HOUSE: A HISTORY OF ADAPTABILITY

A pre-tour lecture attended by 60 people was presented by historian John Atkin. He spoke about the many ways older homes have been adapted through the decades in Vancouver and why – from societal changes and economic shifts to policies that enabled it. The benefits were also discussed including maintaining heritage character, distinctive neighbourhoods and community connections as well as making smart use of existing buildings and resources.

GRANDVIEW HERITAGE TOUR

After the great success of the West End Heritage Tour in 2018, we dedicated our fall tour to a new neighbourhood in 2019. The Grandview Heritage Tour gave ticket holders a chance to visit ten interesting and diverse heritage spaces around Grandview including private homes, commercial spaces and community buildings. Over 400 attendees enjoyed special access to spaces usually closed to the public including the Dayton Boots production area and the ʕwqʷeləwən ct Carving Centre at the Britannia Community Services Centre.

VHF offered nearly 60 events during the year, attended by more than 3,300 people to learn about Vancouver's local history and heritage places.

SPECIAL EVENTS

2019 was an exciting year for special events utilizing new ways of viewing heritage and history. Partnering with False Creek Ferries, small groups headed out onto the water to learn about the history that can be seen along False Creek's shores with five tours during the year. We also explored Pacific Central Station with four tours during the centennial year for the site, including behind the scenes.

Combining history and architectural photography took us to two dramatic locations, starting with the Orpheum Theatre in February. An evening visit to the Bloedel Conservatory in November highlighted the history of the 50-year-old building, a Places That Matter site, and provided special opportunities to learn about architectural and night-time photography.

HERITAGE POP-UP AT THE PERCH

Once again, VHF offered engaging free public programming during the summer in partnership with the Downtown Vancouver BIA. On five lunchtimes during July and August, VHF set up a mid-century style office at Lot 19 on West Hastings Street, downtown Vancouver, complete with a vintage phone to share the history of the area. Guests and passersby were invited to answer the ringing phone to hear one of five short segments voiced by author and artist Michael Kluckner and VHF staff.

THE WALL AT THE CBC PLAZA

The 2019 WALL exhibit featured the artwork “Night Prowl” by Deanna Bowen. Deanna drew on her extensive research into Black entertainment history in the 1940s through the 1970s as inspiration, and her own family history in the city. The work connected into her recent exhibition with the Contemporary Art Gallery. The piece for The WALL featured a still from a film discovered in the CBC archives from a 1959 report on the dramatic purging and forced closures of many nightclubs in Vancouver’s ethnically diverse east end.

ḡḡḡḡḡḡḡḡ PLACE NAMES: A SPECIAL TALK AND TOUR AT MUSQUEAM

In April, we enjoyed a visit to Musqueam to learn about the vital connections of language and place. Since the 1970s, the Musqueam community has been working towards language revitalization through documentation, research and the development of teaching and learning resources. Guide Alec Dan led a tour of the waterfront area. We then joined Elder Larry Grant and Vanessa Campbell of the ḡḡḡḡḡḡḡḡ Language and Culture Department to learn about ḡḡḡḡḡḡḡḡ, the traditionally spoken language by First Nations 6 communities in and around Vancouver, and how language connects to places, history and cultural traditions.

HERITAGE STUDY GUIDE FOR SCHOOLS

In 2019, VHF launched the Heritage Study Guide for Schools to support educators and their students in exploring and learning about local history and heritage places. The 28-page downloadable PDF is available free of charge on the VHF website. It provides a wide range of resources and ties to curriculum themes for both elementary and high school grades. VHF also began offering small grants to educators to support related field trips, and to supply classrooms with a selection of books on local history and heritage.

A targeted outreach effort was made through conferences and workshops to inform local educators about the resource. VHF presented at the BC Social Studies Teachers Conference in October, visited classrooms and supported school community archive initiatives at two elementary schools.

HERITAGE SITE FINDER INTERACTIVE MAP

The map provides the key public source of information on Vancouver's heritage buildings and sites listed on the Vancouver Heritage Register. Several updates were made in 2019, including the creation of individual pages for each of the 2200+ sites. This allows users to search for specific sites and addresses from their favourite search engine rather than having to visit the website directly and resulted in an increase of interest from the public as well as local media. Other improvements included the addition of the Chinatown and Gastown Historic Areas as well as further content and photographs for many sites.

VANCOUVER HOUSE STYLES WEB TOOL

This online guide to Vancouver's many architectural styles continued to be among the most visited on the VHF website. Eight new pages were added during the year, primarily to extend the timeframe into recent decades. A page was also added for Traditional Coast Salish Plank Houses, recognizing the common form of housing on the coast pre-contact. The housing type was erased in Vancouver in the twentieth century but is now seen in more recent examples of community buildings and influences in modern Indigenous architecture.

PLACES THAT MATTER PLAQUES AND COMMUNITY HISTORY RESOURCE

The Places That Matter plaque program launched in 2011 and celebrates the often lesser-known people, places and events that have shaped Vancouver. The accompanying Community History Resource website provides in-depth information about each site and continues to grow through research and community submissions of stories and photographs.

The second annual Places That Matter Community Celebration was held during Heritage Week in February and featured speakers from diverse Vancouver communities and table displays from over twenty organizations and individuals as well as music and refreshments.

Two nominated sites received plaques during the year, with public events held to present the plaques and highlight the history. These bring the total number of plaques around the city to 88.

- J.W. Sexsmith Community School
- BC Place Stadium

Also in 2019, Places That Matter and the Community History Resource website were recognized with awards from both the City of Vancouver and Heritage BC.

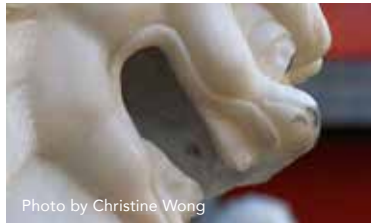

- Award of Honour, City of Vancouver Heritage Awards
- Award of Honour, Education and Awareness, Heritage BC Awards

INTERNSHIPS AND STUDENT ACCESS PROGRAM

To support the development of heritage careers and skills capacity, VHF hosted four internships during the year with support from the Government of Canada's Young Canada Works and Canada Summer Jobs programs. Charlotte Bailey and Claire Vulliamy each assisted with grant programs and online resources development as part of six-month internships. Ian Flock joined us for two months during the summer to work on improvements to online resources. In collaboration with the UBC Asian Canadian and Asian Migration Studies program, we hosted student Yahe Li for eight weeks to research about aspects of cultural heritage in Vancouver's Chinatown.

The Student Access Program also continued to offer discounted and sponsored tickets to full-time students for house tours, lectures and workshops. The program is supported by donations and has the goal to enable students to include local history, cultural heritage and conservation skills in their education.

COMMUNICATIONS

VHF communicated widely through web, social media, email and print about the value of the city's historic buildings and heritage places, conservation topics and VHF programs. Spring and fall print newsletters and a bi-weekly e-newsletter went out to approximately 5,000 people each time. Social media connectivity grew steadily across three platforms, Facebook, Twitter and Instagram.

VHF website usage grew by over 60%. This was driven in part by the creation of individual pages for all 2,200 sites on the Heritage Site Finder interactive map. This change also allowed media including bloggers, journalists and editors to find information about specific heritage sites simply by searching for the address online, resulting in an increase in media mentions for VHF.

In the summer of 2019, VHF celebrated National Historic Places Day with an Instagram promotion featuring the work of four local photographers. The fun promotion highlighted the work of local artists, and educated VHF followers about lesser known heritage places around the city.

Social media engagement grew to over 10,000 in 2019 across three platforms while visits to VHF's website grew by 60%.

VHF's grant programs saw significant changes in 2019. A large commitment of funding through the City of Vancouver enabled VHF to establish the new Heritage Conservation Grants Program to support heritage conservation projects in the city. The impact of this will begin to be seen in 2020. A new grant program was also launched to support history and heritage related publications.

HERITAGE CONSERVATION GRANTS

VHF continued the long-standing Conservation Grants Program, providing much needed encouragement to building and home owners for conservation work. A private donation for the True Colours program increased overall grant funds available to $30,000. VHF offered grants for conservation planning, restoration and painting in historical colours to 11 projects across neighbourhoods from Hastings Sunrise to Kitsilano.

In March, City of Vancouver Council approved a grant of $300,000 per year for four years to VHF to establish a new, expanded program to complement other new and renewed initiatives for heritage conservation offered by the City. The Heritage Conservation Grants Program was launched in September with a first round of grants approved in November.

The new program builds on twenty years of VHF's grant programs for heritage conservation projects. A new Grant Programs Manager joined the team, with the position partly funded by the program. Initial marketing included digital and media outreach as well as packages delivered to over 1,300 heritage-listed sites across the city.

HERITAGE ENERGY RETROFIT GRANTS

VHF concluded a second phase of the Heritage Energy Retrofit Grant program, developed with the City of Vancouver Sustainability Group and City Green Solutions, and with funding support from the City of Vancouver. It offers grants and support to pre-1940 or Heritage Register homes to incentivize reductions in greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and water conservation measures. Twenty-five homes completed retrofits under this phase of the program, achieving an average annual reduction in GHG of 3.25 tonnes (CO₂e/year). A third phase of the program was launched in December with increased funding available per participating home and continued emphasis on building envelope improvements and greater incentive for clean energy options.

YOSEF WOSK PUBLICATION GRANTS

A generous donation by Dr. Yosef Wosk established the Yosef Wosk Publication Fund at VHF. In 2019, a grant program launched, supported by the fund, for new, original publications on aspects of Vancouver's heritage places, their conservation and related topics. A variety of media can be eligible for support through the program including printed books, digital publications and film with up to $10,000 total available annually to disburse. The grant encourages tangible long-lasting products that increase public awareness, knowledge and appreciation of heritage places or heritage conservation in Vancouver, including cultural landscapes or intangible cultural heritage. Four projects were awarded grants in the first intake in the fall.

VHF grants provided $44,000 in support to conservation projects and energy retrofits in 2019, helping sustain heritage places.

VHF events throughout the year generate revenue to help cover costs of programs and projects. However, essential funding comes from donations and fundraising each year. Interest income from investments, sponsorships, grants and donations for specific projects also contribute vital support to enable VHF's programs.

FUNDRAISING

VHF relies on annual fundraising efforts to sustain educational programs, online resources and granting activities throughout the year. Individual donations and fundraising events are key to VHF's continued success. In addition to two fundraising events, an annual campaign ran from October to December.

CITY DRINKS AT THE PANORAMA ROOF

In 2019, our fundraising efforts were supported by an elegant fall fundraiser, held at the Fairmont Hotel Vancouver. The 6th annual City Drinks event took place in the legendary Panorama Roof ballroom. When the hotel opened in 1939, the Roof quickly became a special night spot with its views over the city and weekly CBC broadcasts of the big band dance music of the Dal Richards Orchestra, starting in 1940 for a record run of twenty-five years. Over 150 guests enjoyed tours of the hotel, wine and hors d'oeuvres, a silent auction, music by James Danderfer, Oliver Gannon, Paul Rushka and Jesse Cahill, and a live auction with TV personality Fiona Forbes. The evening was a great success raising $42,000.

Photos by roaming-the-planet.

HISTORIC VANCOUVER BY NIGHT BUS TOUR

For the fourth year, the Mystery Bus Tour set off to view Vancouver's historic streetscapes and see several heritage places from a uniquely after-dark perspective. Led by civic historian John Atkin, 40 guests were welcomed by hosts to tour inside Christ Church Cathedral, Vancouver City Hall and St. George's Junior School. The many highlights included a visit to the roof of City Hall to enjoy the impressive view over the city.

OPERATING AGREEMENT

Vancouver Heritage Foundation is grateful to the City of Vancouver for its continued support in 2019. An operating agreement with the City recognizes the value of the work VHF does to encourage the appreciation and conservation of Vancouver's heritage buildings and places. The annual grant received contributed $132,650 in 2019.

Over 185 volunteers supported VHF programs in 2019. From two big tour events, research and photography, to participating on committees and assisting at numerous other events, volunteers generously gave their time to VHF and enabled a wide range of programs and projects.

We launched the year with our 8th annual volunteer recognition and awards evening in January, this time at St. George's Junior School, the former Sacred Heart Convent, where we heard about the restoration and seismic upgrading work completed and had opportunity to tour the building.
